Actions to Stop Doing
- Stop forgetting to comment on our code - We need to be more clear about what our code does as we dive deeper into the project.
- Stop letting other schedules overwhelm us. We need to manage our time better and allocate time more efficiently.

Actions to Start Doing
- Start documenting our code. As project grows larger, we need to be more clear on what each component does in order to waste less time on reading code.
- Start managing our time better. We need to work more efficiently and get things done.

Actions to Keep Doing
- Keep meeting up and having peer programming. Group work sessions allow us to communicate instantaneously and work more effectively.
- Keep researching relevant tools and libraries. Not only does it speed up our development, but it also broadens our overall development knowledge.
